

ABSTRACT

A method of establishing a network may comprise formatting network establishment parameters into a standard modem command, sending the standard modem command, and extracting the network establishment parameters from the standard modem command. A method of communicating with a device may comprise creating a standard modem command by appending a modem command to a device command and sending the standard modem command to a device. Performance of a method in accordance with the present invention may realize a wireless communication system in accordance with the present invention.

09706592-110300